

Chloe Ling Qiao Yi Kate Lee Kei-Lin Lim Jia Xuan, Kate Loh Min En

This mural shows the changing landscape of Khatib by capturing the development of Khatib over the years, drawing connections

The left of the work depicts Sungei Khatib Bongsu, an iconic landmark and popular kayaking spot in Khatib where people with nature. Next to it is Kampong Khatib Bongsu, a demolished kampong that was known for its prawn farming.

- Mr Lim Nee Soon. His contributions played a crucial role in rubber plantation. To commemorate this, a rubber estate has been illustrated behind his portrait.

The river leads to the dementia-friendly Housing Development Blocks located in Khatib, Singapore's first dementia friendly estate. These buildings are separated into 3 specific zones — blue, green and red, which are represented by a fish, a rubber tree and a pineapple icon respectively. These designs help to establish a community that support the needs of people living with dementia to navigate easily within Khatib.

Altogether, the vibrant community and rich heritage of Khatib are

